

MORE CHIC FIC

Andrews, Mary Kay Savannah Blues
Antique “picker” “Weezie” Foley is still angry that ex-husband Talmadge got her painstakingly restored Savannah townhouse in the divorce. So finding the dead body of Talmadge’s new girlfriend casts suspicion on her.

Campbell, Rebecca Slave To Fashion Katie Castle has the perfect flat (her boyfriend’s place) and the perfect job working for a fashion designer (her boyfriend’s mother). But she can’t help wanting one last fling. If you liked Confessions Of A Shopaholic, try this one.

Colgan, Jenny Talking To Addison
When her bad luck with men and apartments runs true to form, Holly Livingstone talks one of her best friends into renting her a tiny room in his apartment. Once there, she becomes obsessed with another of the roommates, Addison, a reclusive but gorgeous computer geek.

Cook, Claire Must Love Dogs
Dateless for two years after her divorce, Sarah Hurlihy is pushed back into dating when her older sister places a personal ad for her. Sarah finds herself dealing with a few odd dates and the intense interest of her large Irish Catholic family.

Crusie, Jennifer Fast Women
Recently divorced Nell Dysart begins life afresh when she takes a job as secretary to private investigator Gabe McKenna. As Nell begins to organize the office against Gabe’s wishes, she discovers embezzlement, bribery and a decidedly unprofessional attraction to Gabe.

Davis, Jill A. Girl’s Poker Night
When newspaper columnist Ruby Capote moves back to New York, she starts a weekly poker game with some old college friends, locates a good therapist, and finds herself attracted to her boss, Michael.

Durrant, Sabine Having It & Eating It Raising two small children isn’t glamorous — as Maggie Owens realizes bumping into her glamorous old school friend, Claire. When Maggie’s partner Jake is working late and Claire seems to know too much about him, Maggie gets suspicious. For anyone who enjoyed My Life On A Plate.

MORE CHIC FIC

Andrews, Mary Kay Savannah Blues
Antique “picker” “Weezie” Foley is still angry that ex-husband Talmadge got her painstakingly restored Savannah townhouse in the divorce. So finding the dead body of Talmadge’s new girlfriend casts suspicion on her.

Campbell, Rebecca Slave To Fashion Katie Castle has the perfect flat (her boyfriend’s place) and the perfect job working for a fashion designer (her boyfriend’s mother). But she can’t help wanting one last fling. If you liked Confessions Of A Shopaholic, try this one.

Colgan, Jenny Talking To Addison
When her bad luck with men and apartments runs true to form, Holly Livingstone talks one of her best friends into renting her a tiny room in his apartment. Once there, she becomes obsessed with another of the roommates, Addison, a reclusive but gorgeous computer geek.

Cook, Claire Must Love Dogs
Dateless for two years after her divorce, Sarah Hurlihy is pushed back into dating when her older sister places a personal ad for her. Sarah finds herself dealing with a few odd dates and the intense interest of her large Irish Catholic family.

Crusie, Jennifer Fast Women
Recently divorced Nell Dysart begins life afresh when she takes a job as secretary to private investigator Gabe McKenna. As Nell begins to organize the office against Gabe’s wishes, she discovers embezzlement, bribery and a decidedly unprofessional attraction to Gabe.

Davis, Jill A. Girl’s Poker Night
When newspaper columnist Ruby Capote moves back to New York, she starts a weekly poker game with some old college friends, locates a good therapist, and finds herself attracted to her boss, Michael.

Durrant, Sabine Having It & Eating It Raising two small children isn’t glamorous — as Maggie Owens realizes bumping into her glamorous old school friend, Claire. When Maggie’s partner Jake is working late and Claire seems to know too much about him, Maggie gets suspicious. For anyone who enjoyed My Life On A Plate.

Karbo, Karen Motherhood Made A Man Out Of Me Brooke, a movie producer, has the Perfect Wonderment -- her six-month-old baby girl. Her best buddy, Mary Rose, is unexpectedly pregnant. This book explores the bonds between friends and between mothers and babies.

McNeil, Gil The Only Boy For Me Single mother Annie and Charlie, her energetic six-year-old, have a chaotic but wonderful life in the country—only a short commute to her London job as a free-lance producer. When Annie meets Mack, she falls for him immediately. But can he fit into her life? Try this if you enjoyed Hens Dancing.

Mansell, Jill Perfect Timing Poppy Dunbar falls in love with a stranger—the night before her wedding. Breaking off the wedding she heads to London to find a new life—and perhaps the mysterious Tom. An excellent choice if you like Katie Fforde's books.

Mathews, Carole For Better, For Worse Getting over her cheating soon-to-be-ex-husband at last, Josie Flynn meets rock journalist Matt Jarvis on a flight from London to New York. They hit it off, but in a comedy of errors, can not find each other again. A good book for fans of the movie Serendipity.

Nathan, Melissa Pride, Prejudice And Jasmin Field Unexpectedly, columnist Jasmin Field lands a part in a charity stage production of Pride and Prejudice. The director, Harry Noble, is a heartthrob for millions of women, but opinionated. Jasmin finds him tyrannical and aloof. Is the plot starting to sound familiar?

Sisman, Robyn Just Friends Hard as nails British expatriate Freya loves living in New York. Anticipating a proposal from her live-in boyfriend, she's shocked to find out he really wants to break-up. Since she has to move out of his apartment, she starts living with Jack—who's just a friend.

Syal, Meera Life Isn't All Ha Ha Hee Hee Chila, Sunita, and Tania have remained close friends since childhood despite their very different personalities. But all three feel caught between the urban London culture they grew up in and the traditional Indian culture of their families.

Zigman, Laura Her When her fiancée's ex-fiancee moves into town Elise feels threatened by the beautiful Adrienne. She soon becomes fixated on Adrienne and begins to secretly spy on her.

Karbo, Karen Motherhood Made A Man Out Of Me Brooke, a movie producer, has the Perfect Wonderment -- her six-month-old baby girl. Her best buddy, Mary Rose, is unexpectedly pregnant. This book explores the bonds between friends and between mothers and babies.

McNeil, Gil The Only Boy For Me Single mother Annie and Charlie, her energetic six-year-old, have a chaotic but wonderful life in the country—only a short commute to her London job as a free-lance producer. When Annie meets Mack, she falls for him immediately. But can he fit into her life? Try this if you enjoyed Hens Dancing.

Mansell, Jill Perfect Timing Poppy Dunbar falls in love with a stranger—the night before her wedding. Breaking off the wedding she heads to London to find a new life—and perhaps the mysterious Tom. An excellent choice if you like Katie Fforde's books.

Mathews, Carole For Better, For Worse Getting over her cheating soon-to-be-ex-husband at last, Josie Flynn meets rock journalist Matt Jarvis on a flight from London to New York. They hit it off, but in a comedy of errors, can not find each other again. A good book for fans of the movie Serendipity.

Nathan, Melissa Pride, Prejudice And Jasmin Field Unexpectedly, columnist Jasmin Field lands a part in a charity stage production of Pride and Prejudice. The director, Harry Noble, is a heartthrob for millions of women, but opinionated. Jasmin finds him tyrannical and aloof. Is the plot starting to sound familiar?

Sisman, Robyn Just Friends Hard as nails British expatriate Freya loves living in New York. Anticipating a proposal from her live-in boyfriend, she's shocked to find out he really wants to break-up. Since she has to move out of his apartment, she starts living with Jack—who's just a friend.

Syal, Meera Life Isn't All Ha Ha Hee Hee Chila, Sunita, and Tania have remained close friends since childhood despite their very different personalities. But all three feel caught between the urban London culture they grew up in and the traditional Indian culture of their families.

Zigman, Laura Her When her fiancée's ex-fiancee moves into town Elise feels threatened by the beautiful Adrienne. She soon becomes fixated on Adrienne and begins to secretly spy on her.

